'To see what all this really was', she insisted, 'beyond the relics and the old-fashioned horrors and shows- you needed a passion for the everyday'. That was how she put it. "And for that, mere looking got you nowhere. All you see then", she told him, 'is what catches the eye, the odd thing, the unusual. But to see what is common, that is the difficult thing, don't you think? For that we need imagination, and there is never enough of it- never, never, enough' (Malouf, 1999).

Pedagogy

Pedagogy is defined as a core of effective and traditional practices of teaching and training that have worked over time.

Your task

1. View the selected NCVET reports key messages.
2. What do they mean for VET pedagogy?
3. Read, discuss and write down the BIG IDEAS
